

It feels very unusual to be writing a newsletter after so long, but we actually have some upcoming events to tell you about!

School will open fully to all pupils on Monday 8th March. I have sent a separate document outlining all the timings, arrangements and procedures that will take place during the school day. If you haven't received yours, please email or phone school to let us know. We're looking forward to seeing everyone back together soon!

World Book Day is on Thursday 4th March. We have sent you a digital £1 book token which can be used to buy specially written books for the day or can be put towards the cost of any book or audiobook costing £2.99 or more from participating bookshops and supermarkets. (Please note: the token cannot be redeemed online.) The book token can be printed out and taken to your local bookseller. While some booksellers may be able to accept the voucher on a phone or tablet screen, Sainsbury's and Asda are unable to do so. Please check with your bookseller before you visit. Happy reading!

An activity idea for World Book Day. The children could draw a picture of their favourite book cover or character, then place them in window looking out onto the street. Then, when you are out and about for your daily family exercise, the children can walk around the neighbourhood spotting and identifying them.

After working at Tickton School for over 20 years Ms Jackson is retiring at the end of the spring term. Although she will be very much missed by all the children and staff, we wish her all the very best for a long and happy retirement.
